WebXtender

WebXtender eliminates the need to install client software on every corporate workstation while enabling collaboration with remote employees or business partners. This application also enables organizations engaged in e-commerce activities such as electronic bill presentment, or electronic cataloging. Additionally, WebXtender also features configurable ASP pages that can be customized to integrate into your existing web presence.

With its Comprehensive Content Display and Processing, users get a full range of display and processing functionality, such as wildcard and range searches, annotations, redaction, and thumbnails. It also allows remote users to actively participate in collaborations and management of critical business information. This flexibility does not come at the expense of security. Authenticated users are granted all application and document level privileges through various security model options. This can include the native AX security, NT-based security or new LDAP directory services.

Other benefits include:

- Lets users access their own historical email from a central archive.
- Quickly, easily retrieves messages from an hour ago or years ago, by authenticated admin or supervisor.
- Eliminates need for personal archives such as Outlook's .pst files.
- Manages email as a record of business, in accordance with rules of evidence.
